

Healthcare: Advancements in Decision Making

From R&D to patient delivery, GLG's network of healthcare experts and key opinion leaders can help you evaluate opportunities, assess challenges, and navigate the ever-changing intricacies of healthcare investment and research.

How We Help

At GLG, we connect you to people with first-hand healthcare experience, giving you access to powerful insights and the clarity you need to act with confidence.

The World's Knowledge Marketplace Knows Healthcare

GLG's network includes more than 700,000 experts worldwide, over 10% of whom are healthcare industry specialists. We also add an average of 200 new experts to the network every day.

Our global team works with you to identify and recruit the professionals who can add relevant insights to your research, whether you're in need of an academic or community physician or a healthcare expert.

GLG's network of academic and community physicians represents a variety of specialties, including but not limited to:

- Oncology
- Immunology
- Family medicine
- Emergency medicine

Our healthcare experts also include the following executives and administrators:

- Laboratory and medical directors
- Medical division heads
- Hospital administrators
- Former regulatory and reimbursement executives
- Allied health professionals

Our expertise includes:

Biotechnology and Pharmaceuticals

Tap into the largest drug supply chain network – from researchers to physicians – who can help keep you informed on recently published clinical research trials, prescription usage, and other industry trends.

Services

One Approach —Many Ways to Engage:

GLG Consultations

When you need to accelerate your research, an introduction to someone with first-hand healthcare experience can make all the difference. GLG Consultations connect you with an expert or key opinion leader for a call or an in-person or video meeting so you can gain powerful insights to drive decision-making. Connect directly with an expert or choose a moderated, translated, or multi-party call – whatever fits your needs.

GLG Events

When you need to understand market dynamics or challenges in the healthcare industry, you need fast and relevant insights. GLG Events offer real-time engagements, including in-person and remote roundtables, teleconferences, webcasts, site visits, lab sequencing tours, roundtables, and floor walks at leading healthcare industry conferences, custom workshops, and focus groups.

GLG Placements

When new opportunities or unexpected challenges arise, you may not have the right expertise in-house to get to the best result. GLG Placements bring C-suite professionals to you so you can quickly get your team up to speed, build an executive team, or place a board member on an interim or long-term basis.

GLG Projects

When you need to understand nuances in the healthcare industry, professionals with first-hand experience provide the most powerful insights. GLG Projects provide access to our experts for longer-term, more in-depth engagements. For each engagement, we staff one or more top-tier consultants and subject-matter experts with experience across all major healthcare disciplines.

GLG Surveys

When you need to do a pulse-check or validate an idea, save time by scaling insights against targeted healthcare populations. GLG Surveys help you meet your research objectives by delivering a full spectrum of insights, leveraging the world's most robust and diverse source of first-hand B2B expertise.
